

Los Angeles Times

Wine of the Week:

Renwood Winery Zinfandel “Premier Old Vine” Amador County ($20)

“If you're hankering to drink a big old-vine California Zin, it's now or never. You need a chill in the air — and a big piece of beef braising on the stove. These intense, almost syrupy wines aren't for everyone, but if you love them, you'll love this example from Renwood in Amador County in California Gold Country. Renwood is a specialist in Zin, making half a dozen different bottlings. The Premier Old Vine is the least expensive and a bargain for the quality.”

RENWOOD
— WINERY —